CURATIVE LEGISLATION.

CURATIVE LEGISLATION.

Twenty-three bills passed were curative acts. They are so designated by attorneys because they cure defects in present laws. The most common defect, as shown by foot notes in the compiled statute, is the absence of repealing clauses. The courts I ave held that when an amendatory act is passed the bill must designate the section sought to be amended and also repeal such section. Some important sections in the statutes have been declared unconstitutional, because legislatures have not followed this plan of repealing sections sought to be amended. Lawyers deem the curative acts among the most important passed by the legislature. Some of the curative acts merely strike out words that have been abrogated by decisions of the courts, or correct palpable errors that occurred in times past in the enrolling room, such as the misspelling of a word or the substitution of a wrong word. The following are the curative acts passed:

Bondsmen Are Held Liable.

The supreme court handed down an opinion in the case of the bondsmen of ex-Oil Inspector L. F. Hilton against the state of Nebraska, in which the plaintiffs sought to be released from liability on the bond, judgment having been rendered against them in the lower court. The judgment, which was for $5,622.56, is reversed and the case remanded with direction to the district court to render judgment on the verdict and to certify therein that Hilton is the principal and that the plaintiffs in error are sureties on the bond.

In the district court the clerk in certifying the case failed to state, in accordance with the provisions of the code of civil procedure, that some of the defendants in the action were sureties. The supreme court held that this is reversible error, although the matter was not brought to the attention of the lower court by motion or otherwise.

The action against Hilton and his bondsmen was instituted to recover $5,622.56, which he was alleged to have received for inspecting gasoline. The defendants contended that the inspection of gasoline was not an official act and that for that reason the oil inspector should not be held nable for the amount. No part of the amount named was accounted for by Mr. Hilton when he retired from office.

The supreme court holds that when the inspector of oils examines gasoline and places upon the cask in which it is contained the statutory brand of condemnation he performs an official act and that the fees received by him for the services are officially received.

The bondsmen in the case are Richard Blaco, W. C. Walton, E. A. Stewart and John M. McKeen. According to the decision of the court they are liable for the amount of the shortage.

Depository Bonds.

Interpretation of the new law cutting down the rate of interest on state funds in state depositories and preventing officers of banks from being accepted as sureties on depository bonds has been puzzling State Treasurer Meserve. The three state officers comprising the board that passes upon such bonds recently determined to require all depositories to give new bonds. The officers of several banks have asked the state treasurer whether the new law applies to directors of banks. In some cases the banks do not want to ask citizens to sign a depository bond unless persons interested in the bank first sign. It was thought that directors are not really officers and might not be prohibited from signing. This question was placed before Attorney General Smyth, who added to it a second question, whether if a director signs a bond he can be held on the bond in case it is subsequently determined that a director is an officer. Many banks are giving bonds signed by guarantee companies, but as a renewal of depository bonds is to be required, all bankers holding state funds are interested in an interpretation of the law.

Attorney General Smyth believes a director of a bank is not an officer of a bank under the meaning of the state law, and therefore such persons may be accepted as sureties on depository bonds. He believes also that if directors sign they may be held liable.

The Lamented Stotsenberg. The governor is in receipt of a letter from the father of Colonel Stotsenberg, as follows

"NEW ALBANY, Ind.,-Hon. W. A. Poynter, Governor of Nebraska.—Dear Sir: I thank you personally, and as the representative of the people of Nebraska, for your tender and touching letter and tender expressions of sympathy. It is true that we have lost our first born, but it is consolatory to know that he died for Nebraska and for the nation on the field of battle and as the leader of as brave and well disciplined an American regiment as ever marched against an enemy; that he worked and toiled for the comfort and welfare of the fighting First Nebraska; that he was as proud of it as a fond mother is of a beloved child; that he aided in making (through its heroism and gallantry on the battlefield) the place of honor for the great state of Nebraska among her sister states when the history of this war is written, and that he freely and cheerfully gave up his life for his country, greatly alleviate the bitterness and anguish of this severe bereavement. Yes, as you say, 'he added honors to Nebraska and died like a hero." Please thank Adjutant General Barry and the Hon. William L. Stark for their kind words of condolence. Very respectfully yours. "JOHN B. STOTSENBERG."

Nebraska Crop Bulletin

The past week, says the Nebraska rop bulletin, has been warm, with high winds, much sunshine and an excess of rainfall. The average daily temperature excess has varied from 9 degrees in the eastern counties to 4 degrees in the western.

The rainfall has been above normal. except in a few counties along the southern border of the state. Most of the rain fell in the last two days of the week and the ground was very dry in most parts of the state during the greater part of the week.

The past week has been favorable for farm work and rapid progress has been made in most counties. However, in a few localities the dry soil the first of the week retarded the work somewhat. Small grain is now nearly all sown and the early sown is coming up rather unevenly in most localities because of the dry condition of the soil. Winter wheat has improved slightly in the extreme southeastern counties, but most of the crop in the state is dead. Plowing for corn has been general in all counties and a large proportion of the corn ground is now ready to plant, but as yet very little corn has been planted.
